here to help those sleeping beauties

Mandy Gurney, Founder of Millpond Children's Sleep Clinic and author of sleep bible: Teach Your Child To Sleep, guides parents through the sleep issues during that important first year.

millpondsleepclinic.com

having realistic expectations about your child's sleep helps you adapt to their changes

baby's body

clock Babies don't come with a programmed body clock. They will have sensed a difference in the womb from your movements or stillness, but cannot connect this with day and night yet and will use their hunger as a sleep cue instead.

how can you help?

Fresh air and daylight will help regulate your baby's body clock. At nap times, keep the curtains open and don't minimise noise. Do the opposite at night, and during night feeds keep your voice low, with little stimulation. This contrast will eventually help your baby learn that night-time is for sleeping.

routine matters

Every night, set aside 30 minutes for your routine. Start with a short warm bath, then take your baby straight into the room where they'll sleep, keeping the lights dim. Dress your baby for bed, then give them a cuddle and a kiss before settling them in their cot.

During the early weeks your baby will need a feed right before bed, but in time, try feeding earlier, so they become less dependent on sucking to sleep. Aim to put your baby in their cot slightly awake so they get used to settling themselves.

ALWAYS REMEMBER

Your baby may need more or less sleep than average, so try not to compare them to others – if they are thriving... then you're getting it right. Remember to always follow sleep safety advice.

sleep safety – advice

- always place baby on their back to sleep
- avoid letting your baby get too hot or too cold by using a room thermometer (16 to 20°C is ideal)
- place your baby to sleep in a separate moses basket or crib in the same room as you for the first 6 months
- use a new, firm, flat, waterproof mattress
- don't cover your baby's face or head while sleeping
- never sleep on a sofa or in an armchair with your baby
- don't smoke, or let anyone smoke around you or your baby during pregnancy or after the birth

swaddle and muslin blankets

Some babies like to be swaddled, with their legs and arms close to their bodies, which mimics the feeling of being held and cuddled. You can swaddle with our special swaddle blankets, a lightweight blanket or large muslin. Swaddling has many benefits including helping to prevent the startle reflex from waking your baby, meaning a better night's sleep for everyone – hurrah!

1-3. swaddling blankets

moses baskets Moses baskets are ideal for newborns as they're small and comfortable. They can easily be moved around your home making them perfect for daytime naps or longer sleeps at night.

cribs Cribs are a smaller version of cots and are suitable for newborns until about six months old (depending on the size of your baby).

cots Cots can be used for newborns and will see you through their baby years. Just remember to put your baby in the feet to foot position (your baby's feet placed at the bottom of the cot) to minimise the risk of them wriggling under the covers.

dropside cots Dropside cots are suitable from newborn until approx. 2 years, with a three-position adjustable base and easy-to-lower side that allows you to lift your baby in and out with minimal fuss.

cot beds Cot beds convert into toddler beds when your little one grows bigger, so they're a great investment. Remember they are slightly bigger than cots so measure your nursery before buying.

toddler beds Toddler beds are suitable from 18 months old – they're smaller and closer to the ground than a single bed, so they're a great transition to a grown-up bed. Some toddler beds come with bed guards, or you can buy them separately. See online for our range of toddler beds and bed guards.

mattress buying guide

A newborn baby needs around 17 hours of sleep per day for healthy brain and physical development. A good cot mattress can help your baby get all the sleep they need – great news for them and even better news for you!

outer cover features

Breathability is the key when considering your baby's safety. The Airflow cover cleverly captures a pocket of air between breathable fabric, ensuring your baby can sleep safely.

Anti-allergy technology inhibits the growth of bacteria and germs and dramatically reduces the likelihood of irritation caused by allergens.

COOLMAX® helps to maintain a balanced body temperature, due to the channels in the fabric that pull moisture away from the skin.

A washable outer cover is very useful for ensuring your baby's mattress stays fresh and clean throughout its use.

A waterproof inner cover is easily wipeable and prevents liquids from soaking into the mattress core.

The SAFEseal waterproof outer cover is easily wipeable and prevents liquids from soaking into the mattress core, keeping it free from bacteria, fungus and dust.

mattress interior types

	pocket spring mattresses	the best, most responsive support and comfort for your baby spring interior mattresses	good support and will remain comfy for the life of the mattress foam interior mattresses	adequate support recommended for occasional use

did you know...

- ♥ reducing naps in the day won't help your young baby sleep at night - in fact a well-rested baby sleeps better at night!
- ♥ your baby's sleep can be silent, still, deep, noisy and active - all in one night!
- ♥ the safest position for your baby to sleep is on their back.
- ♥ new baby, new mattress - a new mattress is recommended for every child

check your mattress size

Choosing the right mattress could help your baby get a better – and safer – night’s sleep. Make sure that the gap between your baby’s mattress and cot sides is no greater than 3cm to prevent small limbs from becoming trapped.

pocket sprung

Individual springs encased in their own separate pockets move independently to provide postural support according to your baby's shape and weight. Even as baby moves around, only the springs directly underneath them compress, gently cradling them for the most comfortable sleep.

here to help you make the right choice

The many different features on monitors offer you a variety of ways to check your baby is sleeping soundly and in comfort. It's up to you to decide which monitor suits your baby, your home and your lifestyle.

audio Analogue or digital monitors allow you to listen to your baby from another room. Digital monitors offer more channels and clearer sound.

video Monitor allows you to not only hear your baby, but lets you see them too. A video camera transmits pictures to a screen on the parent unit. Some feature remote pan, tilt and zoom to adjust the view, and infra-red so you can keep an eye on your baby after dark.

sensory A pad is placed under baby's mattress to detect movement and breathing. An alarm will sound if no movement is detected after 20 seconds. Some models also offer audio monitoring.

connected Video baby monitors with high definition Wi-Fi cameras help you keep an eye on your baby from a parent monitor, compatible smartphone, tablet, or computer directly from the Hubble App. Helping to keep you and your baby connected anywhere.

things to consider

number of channels A choice of channels reduces the interference your monitor picks up, improving reception.

nightlight Creates a soft and soothing glow and also allows you to check on baby without disturbing them or needing to switch on the main light in the nursery.

room temperature Allows you to check the room temperature through the parent unit to ensure it is not too hot or cold for baby.

out-of-range indicator Lets you know whether the monitor and parent unit are within a suitable distance of each other so the reception can be picked up.

smart phone connectivity Offers a more reliable wireless connection with compatible smartphones, tablets and computers.

sounds and lights Shows your baby's sounds via a light display, so you can still check on your baby, even if the volume is turned down or off.

safety note: monitors are not intended to replace adult supervision, so regularly checking on your baby is essential

here to help baby go on adventures

Babies seem to need an awful lot of stuff. But take it from us, having all the travel necessities and bits and bobs organised makes any adventure with your little one easier.

baby's travel tips Some babies love the car and fall asleep as soon as you turn the ignition key. Others not so much! Experiences like new noises, strange movements, and being strapped into a seat where they can't see mum can be a lot for young babies to cope with. Make sure they feel secure, comfortable and entertained to help them settle.

how can you help? Make every journey fun, even if it's just a trip to the shops. If baby finds the car a daunting place then take their favourite toy to share in the adventure. Music can be a great distraction too – embrace your inner 'mummy shark' and make a baby-friendly playlist for travel sing-alongs.

don't get stranded and be prepared for anything However short the journey, always be prepared for every eventuality. Spare nappies, wipes, a change of clothes, snacks, a drink, even a blanket will be invaluable should you break down or get stuck in gridlocked traffic. Keep safety in mind too – always remove baby's coat on long journeys to ensure they don't overheat, and observe the 2-hour rule for how long your baby should use a car seat without a break.

let the journey begin!

Having a baby is a journey, and every journey with a baby requires a car seat! It's bewildering, but we're here to help with advice, clear sizing and even in-store fitting to ensure the safest possible car seat for your precious cargo.

car seats

- o buying guide
- o infant car seats
- o combination car seats
- o carriers and slings

A close-up photograph of a baby with dark hair and eyes, wearing a white long-sleeved shirt, seated in a black Mothercare car seat. The baby is looking towards the camera with a curious expression. The car seat's harness straps are visible, with the brand name 'mothercare' printed in white on the black fabric. The background is a grey, textured fabric.

here to help baby's first drive

At mothercare we understand how important it is to find the right car seat for each age and stage. That's why we've put together a series of helpful tips to make sure you have everything you need to know in preparation for the journey ahead.

We have a team of advisors in-store to help ensure the seat you purchase is right for your needs and your car. They will demonstrate how to fit your car seat safely and provide you with a comprehensive fitting checklist, to make sure your child stays safe on every journey. Visit mothercarebookings.com to book a free car seat fitting at your nearest participating mothercare store.

we recommend that young babies spend no more than two hours in their car seat over a 24 hour period. Ask relatives to visit you in the early months so that you don't have to travel. If you do travel, take plenty of breaks and make sure somebody sits in the back of the car with your baby.

before you shop a few important questions

- how old is your child?
- how much does your child weigh?
- how tall is your child?
- what vehicle will it be fitted into?
- will the car seat be used in any car other than your own?
- does the vehicle have ISOFIX and is it i-Size ready?
- does the vehicle have under floor storage?
- does the vehicle have top tether?

car seats are divided into groups, and it is your child's weight and height (not age) that matters. Weigh and measure your child before visiting a mothercare store so we can help you select the correct car seat as per the ECE/R44 standard, or i-Size/R129 standard which uses your child's height to determine car seat suitability.

ensure you are clear on the benefits of keeping your child rearward-facing for as long as possible. There are a number of options once your child is ready to move into a Group 1 car seat and our car seat advisors will give you all the information you need to make this decision.

the make and model of your car is also important, so if the car seat is going to be used in multiple cars, make sure you let our advisors know so they can check the brand's fit-finder as not all car seats are compatible with all vehicles.

our car seat advisors will demonstrate how to fit your chosen car seat and ensure that you are clear on the features so you'll be confident on how to fit and use the seat safely when you leave our stores.

ISOFIX is the standard system built into all new cars and car seats, designed to make correctly installing your child's car seat quick and easy. With ISOFIX you simply 'plug in' a compatible car seat or car seat base to anchor points in the car.

what is the law? The law states that all children must use a car seat until they are either 135cm in height or the age of 12 – whichever they reach first. It is the driver's responsibility to ensure children under the age of 14 years are restrained correctly in accordance with the law.

regulations, regarding backless booster seats came into effect on the 9th February 2017. As of this date, newly designed and manufactured models will only be approved for use by children over 125cm or 22kg. At mothercare, we recommend high back booster seats as they offer better head and side protection for older children.

Please check in-store or on our website for full details.

i-Size

i-Size car seats are a new, different kind of car seat which offer your little one a safer way to travel and improved protection in the event of an accident. They make up the first phase of the new European car seat regulation R129, which will eventually take over from the old car seat regulations.

i-Size car seats are all ISOFIX so they have less chance of being incorrectly fitted and they provide improved protection at higher forces for side and frontal impact. With i-Size car seats, which are fitted taking your child's height into account, your little one has to stay rearward-facing until they're 15 months old which is safer and helps protect their neck and spine in the event of an accident.

safety note: avoid long journeys with your newborn baby

here to help with keeping baby close

A baby carrier or sling lets you keep your little one close and provides a convenient way of transporting your baby. Keep them cosy and your hands free with a carrier or sling. Just be sure to use it safely...

Designed for full-term, healthy babies, our slings are a great way to bond with your baby while transporting them around the house or outdoors. Babies in slings should be positioned as though being cradled in their parent's arms. If your baby is under the care of a paediatrician, please seek advice before using a sling. Here are our tips for carrying your baby safely:

- Always use a carrier or sling that is suitable for the age and weight of your baby.
- For multi-position carriers, check age suitability for each carrying position.
- When baby is carried on the carer's front, they should be carried at carer's chest height and no lower than the waist.
- Regularly check that your baby remains in the correct position.
- Ensure baby's face is pointing outwards with plenty of ventilation. Baby's face should be visible at all times and not covered by your body or fabric. Take care to re-position if you cannot check on baby simply by glancing down.
- Regularly check that your baby remains in the correct position.
- Don't let your baby get too hot or cold when using a sling or carrier; layered clothing is ideal. Remember, your body also creates warmth for baby.
- Be particularly vigilant when using a sling with a young baby or a baby with a heavy cold.
- Adjust the sling or carrier to fit the size of the carer and ensure the sling fits both baby and carer securely.
- Always read and follow the instructions and product labelling for the sling; these are designed to let you know how to use the sling safely. Remember that all slings are designed to have slightly different features.
- When you first use a baby sling or carrier, please ask someone to help you so that you can practise putting it on and taking it off. Check the sling or carrier on a regular basis to ensure no parts are worn or broken.

feeding time?

At mothercare we know that a healthy baby is a happy baby. That's why we've put together a series of helpful feeding tips so that your baby gets off to the best possible start.

Breastfeeding has many benefits both for mums and babies, especially when it comes to protecting them against infections and diseases.

Don't worry if you feel it's taking a while to get the hang of breastfeeding. Your midwife, health visitor and friends who have breastfed can all be a great support in the early days, and we've also got some tips, advice and videos online.

breastfeeding

before your baby is born...

3-6 months pregnant: Read up on breastfeeding and familiarise yourself with 'how to breastfeed' guides. Visit mothercare.com for videos and lots of helpful tips and advice.

36-38 weeks: Time to get measured for a nursing bra.

after your baby is born...

straight after birth:

Your breasts produce a creamy substance called colostrum which provides your baby with early nourishment and antibodies until your milk comes in. Colostrum is very concentrated so your newborn will only need small amounts at first.

within the first hour

after birth: If you feel up to it, you could try breastfeeding, this can help with the bonding process. Remember, your baby's mouth should completely cover the areola below the nipple and your nipple should be far back in your baby's mouth.

2-4 days after birth:

Your breasts will start feeling full and this is a sign that your milk has come in. Midwives usually recommend that you feed your baby on demand (whenever they are hungry) at first until breastfeeding is established and you feel comfortable.

bottle feeding

do...

- buy new bottles and teats for each baby
- wash all your feeding equipment with hot soapy water using a teat and bottle brush before sterilising
- read and follow any formula milk instructions carefully
- check the temperature of your baby's milk before each feed
- throw away any unused milk after your baby has finished feeding and always prepare a fresh bottle for the next feed

don't...

- put boiling water straight into the bottle; instead allow to cool for no longer than 30 minutes
- worry if your baby doesn't finish a feed: babies' appetites vary and sometimes they're just not hungry
- mix breastmilk and formula milk in the same bottle – breastmilk can be kept (and frozen), but formula milk needs to be discarded after each feed
- heat your baby's milk in the microwave, as hot spots can scald
